Factsheet as of December 31, 2025

Index Overview

The Franklin Global Trends Index is a multi-asset index focused on broad diversification across both geography and asset class. The index dynamically allocates based on market trends and potential key opportunities across the globe, all with an eye toward risk management.

Index designed to pursue three powerful benefits:

Broad Diversification: The index is focused on broad diversification across both geography and asset class, while considering risk.

Compelling Trends: It dynamically allocates across 10 global assets classes based on the market trends we believe provide the best opportunity for future success.

Global Positioning: A dynamic, global approach to allocation means the index may be positioned to take advantage of more opportunities compared to a US-only strategy.

Index Risks

Stock prices fluctuate, sometimes rapidly and dramatically, due to factors affecting individual companies, particular industries or sectors, or general market conditions. Bond prices generally move in the opposite direction of interest rates. Thus, as the prices of bonds adjust to a rise in interest rates, the performance of the Index may decline. International investments are subject to special risks, including currency fluctuations and social, economic and political uncertainties, which could increase volatility. These risks are magnified in emerging markets. During times of extreme market volatility, the Index will not be able to eliminate market losses or capture all market gains.

"Volatility Control" Indices are designed to shift allocations, based on signals in the market, to help keep volatility at or near the stated target. When market volatility is relatively low the index will likely maintain exposure to riskier assets, such as equities. When volatility increases, the index is likely to reallocate so that it is weighted toward low-risk assets, such as cash.

The Franklin Global Trends Index is an excess return index. An excess return index deducts the value of cash daily, which is reflected in the index value. The Index uses the US Federal Funds Effective Rate as its basis for the daily cash value.

There are risks relating to the Index discussed herein. Please request a copy of the applicable Index rulebook for additional information and disclosure.

Index-linked annuities are insurance contracts issued by an insurance company. Index-linked annuities are not invested in the Index itself, but rather interest is credited based on the performance of the Index and the rules prescribed in the insurer's Index crediting strategy. Index-linked annuities are not issued by Franklin.

Hypothetical and Live Performance

Any data for the period prior to index inception consists of pre-inception data calculated by retroactively applying the Index methodology. Simulated returns and pre-inception data are hypothetical and included for illustrative purposes only. Performance based on hypothetical returns prior to index inception and actual returns thereafter.

The Index was created on November 8, 2021. Levels for the Index prior to November 8, 2021 represent hypothetical data determined by retroactive application of a back-tested model, itself designed with the benefit of hindsight. Actual performance will vary, perhaps materially, from the performance set forth herein.

The performance of the Index may include certain embedded transaction costs but does not include fees or costs of any financial instrument referencing the Index.

Hypothetical performance results may have other inherent risks. No representation is being made that any account will or is likely to achieve profit or loss. The relevant market and economic conditions that prevailed will not necessarily reoccur. There are numerous other factors related to the markets in general or to the implementation of any specific trading program which cannot be accounted for. All hypothetical results are presented for illustrative purposes only. Hypothetical and past performance is no guarantee of future performance.

Back-testing and other statistical analysis material that is provided in connection with the Index use simulated analysis and hypothetical circumstances to estimate how it may have performed prior to its actual existence. The results obtained from "back-testing" information should not be considered indicative of the actual results that might be obtained from an investment or participation in a financial instrument or transaction referencing the Index. Neither Franklin nor Solactive (Germany-based index provider operating globally since 2007) provide assurance or guarantee that the products linked to the Index will operate or would have operated in the past in a manner consistent with these materials. The hypothetical historical levels have inherent limitations. Alternative simulations, techniques, modeling or assumptions might produce significantly different results and prove to be more appropriate. Actual results will vary, perhaps materially, from the simulated returns presented in this document.

The hypothetical performance information presented herein does not reflect the results of actual trading and calculation of the Index levels and performance do not reflect the fees and expenses that an investor would pay. These fees and expenses would cause the actual and back-tested performance of the Index to be lower.
