

Meet Your Speaker

Quinton Alston-Spratt

Head of Advisor Practice Management

Franklin Templeton Academy

quinton.alston-spratt@franklintempleton.comBackground

Quinton Alston-Spratt serves as the Head of Advisor Practice Management at Franklin Templeton. He has spent the past 16 years honing his expertise in coaching financial professionals, services teams, and leaders, focusing on communication skills that enhance internal team dynamics and client interactions. Since joining Franklin Templeton, Quinton has been at the forefront of transforming teams and individuals through his engaging speaking events and coaching sessions.

Experience and Credentials

His dynamic presentations at major industry conferences have left a lasting impression on participants across the country. Quinton's impact is not confined to the stage; he's a recognized thought leader featured in blogs, articles, and podcasts as well. His driving force is helping people have better conversations. Quinton believes better conversations lead to better relationships, and better relationships lead to better outcomes.

Personal

Beyond the financial world, Quinton resides in Baltimore, Maryland. In his spare time, he channels his creativity into photography, working on his personal project to capture the beauty of all 63 US National Parks.

Our mission is to empower our partners with insights, education and consulting to drive extraordinary outcomes. We are committed to providing knowledge and resources designed to help you stay ahead and grow your business. With a comprehensive engagement model, we offer a range of programs focused on investment education, professional development and wealth planning.