

Putnam U.S. Large Cap Value Equity Concentrated SMA

Commentary | as of September 30, 2025

Key Takeaways

- Markets: US equity markets delivered gains for the third quarter, driven by optimism surrounding Federal Reserve rate cuts and technology sector strength.
- Contributors: Stock selection in information technology, health care, financials and industrials.
- Detractors: Stock selection in materials and consumer staples
- Outlook: Economic growth and equity markets remain resilient, but we are mindful of the potential impact of tariffs on inflation and consumer spending.

Performance Review

- For the quarter, the portfolio generated a positive return and outperformed its benchmark, the Russell 1000 Value Index.
 Stock selection drove performance while sector allocation decisions detracted modestly.
- Stock selection contributed most in the information technology, health care, financials, and industrials sectors. Relative weakness among stocks in the materials and consumer staples sectors provided a partial offset.
- From a sector allocation perspective, relative performance was hurt by an overweight to consumer staples, the weakest sector in the benchmark, and an underweight to communication services, the strongest sector in the benchmark.
- Top individual contributors to performance included an out-of-benchmark position in Seagate Technology (information technology) and overweight positions in Citigroup (financials), PulteGroup (consumer discretionary), General Motors (consumer discretionary), and Northrop Grumman (industrials).
- Detractors included overweight positions in American International Group (financials), Charter Communications (communication services), Philip Morris International (consumer staples), Freeport-McMoRan (materials), and BJ's Wholesale Club (consumer staples).

Outlook

- US economic growth and equity markets remain resilient despite macroeconomic challenges. These include a softening labor market, a growing bifurcation of the consumer sector, and the formalization of some tariffs.
- The economy has yet to experience the full effects of tariffs and questions remain around a number of tariff proposals. We are mindful of the potential impact of tariffs on inflation and consumer spending in the months ahead.
- Based on the general direction of economic data, markets are optimistic about further interest-rate cuts from the Federal Reserve. However, we believe the data does not indicate a clear path forward and there is clearly some division among FOMC members.
- We continue to see uncertainty around Trump administration policies, several of which could have consequences for economic growth and investor confidence. At the same time, equity valuations are on the rich side of history, leaving stocks vulnerable to negative developments that are likely at this stage of the economic cycle.
- Corporate earnings have remained strong and are expected to continue to grow, albeit at a slower pace than previously anticipated. The implementation of meaningful tariffs could have a significant impact on earnings growth, stressing current expensive multiples.
- Financials make up a considerable portion of the value universe, and we are watching for proposals that could ease the regulatory burden on banks and boost long-term return potential for the sector.
- Although uncertainty remains, as value investors, we recognize that market disruptions can also present attractive investment opportunities.

Investors cannot invest directly in an index, and unmanaged index returns do not reflect any fees, expenses or sales charges.

Fees: Periods less than one year are not annualized. Performance results are for the composite which includes all actual, fully discretionary accounts with substantially similar investment policies and objectives managed to the composite's investment strategy. Composite returns are stated in U.S. dollars and assume reinvestment of any dividends, interest income, capital gains, or other earnings. The composite may include account(s) that are gross of fees and pure gross of fees. "Pure" gross-of-fee returns do not reflect the deduction of any expenses, including transaction costs. A traditional (or "true") gross-of-fee return reflects performance after the reduction of transaction costs but before the reduction of the investment advisory fee. The gross-of-fee return may include a blend of "true" gross-of-fee returns for non-wrap accounts and "pure" gross-of-fee returns for wrap accounts. Net Composite returns referenced above represent Pure Gross composite performance of the portfolio reduced by an annual fee of 2.02%, the maximum fee charged by Primerica Advisors to clients invested in the strategy through the Lifetime Investment Program wrap fee program. The Net of fee composite returns presented in the strategy GIPS report are calculated by reducing each monthly composite pure gross rate of return by the highest "bundled" fee charged (3.00%) annually, prorated to a monthly ratio.

The composite is comprised of accounts that are separately managed accounts (SMAs) managed in accordance with the strategy.

For investors that access strategies through the Primerica Advisors Lifetime Investment Program, Primerica Advisors or its service providers, not Franklin Templeton Private Portfolio Group, LLC (FTPPG), is responsible for implementing the strategy in your account. What are the Risks?

All investments involve risks, including possible loss of principal. The investment style may become out of favor, which may have a negative impact on performance. To the extent the portfolio invests in a concentration of certain securities, regions or industries, it is subject to increased volatility. The manager may consider environmental, social and governance (ESG) criteria in the research or investment process; however, ESG considerations may not be a determinative factor in security selection. In addition, the manager may not assess every investment for ESG criteria, and not every ESG factor may be identified or evaluated.
